Coleman Honored War Dead at Impressive Remembrance Service

Pe Dedicate Our Lives to Spirit of Sacrifice of War Days is Theme of Inspiring Address by Rev. Roy C. Taylor

Thrills in pride of achievement tinged with sadness was the spirit pervading the inspiring Remembrance Day service held in the Community hall on Sunday morning. Ex-service men wearing on their breasts medals denoting service in the various campaigns in France, Gallipoli and other theatres of the Great War, together with Boy Scouts, Rangers, Girl Guides and Brownies, swung along sharply to the hall, where a splendid turnout of citizens had already gathered to honor the memory of the fallen and to re-dedicate their lives in the pursuit of peace and the care of those who are still victims of the most stupendous militaristic upheaval of world history.

Occupying the centre of the stage was the memorial plaque, bearing the names of Coleman's war dead, draped with the Union Jack, impressive in its dignified simplicity, together with a framed photo of the late Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, commander of the British forces in France and Flanders, while backstage was draped the Victory Flag, emblematic of Coleman's share in the memorable Victory Loan campaign. Flags of the Scouts and Girl Guides added their touch of color to the setting. On the stage were Mayor Pattinson, Rev. Roy C. Taylor, Rev. A. S. Partington, Lieut. Carter of the Salvation Army, Captain Coats and Captain Davis of the airport camp, District Commissioner Mrs. R. P. Borden of the Girl Guides, Lieut. Mrs. C. B. Devine, Lieut. Mrs. S. B. Ryan, Mrs. Walter Williams, leader of the Brownies; Scoutmasters Llewellyn and Reggie Jones of the Boy Scouts and the Rangers troop. Mr. J. Emmerson, organist, and Fred Harris and Thos. Hill, violinists, played the accompaniments for the hymns, and the "Last Post" was sounded by ex-Drum Major J. Lowe.

The roll of honor was read by W. H. Garner, president of Coleman branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E. S.L. Opening with "O Canada," followed by two minutes silence and the "Last Post," the impressive hymn "O God our Help in Ages Past" was sung. The scripture lesson was read by Rev. A. S. Partington, and the dedicatory prayer by Lieut. Carter.

The Remembrance Day address by Rev. Roy C. Taylor, inspiring in its appeal and reflections on the moral lessons of the war and all that has since passed, was heard with rapt attention, the speaker making an impassioned appeal for the maintenance of those ideals for which men had fought and died. Speaking as a comrade of the war, he referred to the days when men would be awaiting in the cold wet trenches for the "zero" hour, awaiting with taut nerves the command to go "over the top," and many a prayer was uttered on such occasions. Men felt they were fighting for liberty and freedom then; yet in the peace years that have since passed on they are still fighting for freedom and the opportunity to earn a decent living.

The concluding hymn, "For All the Saints Who From Their Labors Rest," followed by the National Anthem, brought this inspiring service to a close, following which many went to Frank to join with Bellevue branch of the Canadian Legion in the memorial service.

Mr. R. V. Mundy, and Capt. R. E. Donkin, reeve of Frank, in conjunction with the Bellevue Legion, again organized this service, on similar lines to that of last year. This service was held at Mr. and Mrs. Dunlop's residence, at the front of which stands the honor roll of the war dead of the village. Reeve Donkin presided, and those taking part were Mr. Shevels and Rev. Mr. Upton, of Bellevue; Rev. Roy Taylor and Rev. A. S. Partington.

SENDING OUT THE NEWS (by H.T.H.)

Daily newspapers throughout Canada always want "hot news." The fire at International mine was front page news on all dailies, for it involved great danger, fortunately in this instance unattended by loss of life, with the exception of the tragic death of Mines Inspector Johnson, which occurred outside of the mine. Happenings of this nature are of sufficient news value to warrant distribution through Canada by Canadian Press service, and nearly 3,000 words were filed at the local telegraph office.

How this news is assembled many are curious to know. At all points where news is likely to break at any hour of the day or night, local correspondents gather the facts, assemble them into order as quickly as possible and by telegraphic service or long distance telephone send dispatches conveying the news in as few words as possible but still describing those happenings which are of vital interest.

At larger centres Canadian Press correspondents, usually on the staff of a daily newspaper, make up their dispatches from the local detail supplied from correspondents in the district where the news originates. Detailed information wired in from Coleman to Letbridge will invariably be published in full, for the Letbridge Herald makes a special point of covering as fully as possible all news in the district of Southern Alberta and eastern British Columbia. This detail might not be of importance to papers in other provinces, yet warrants Canadian Press distribution, therefore it is "boiled down," to use a newspaper term.

For instance, Toronto Daily Star requires direct dispatches on important happenings here, but not in as much detail as a daily paper in the province, therefore the local correspondent would "boil down" to a hundred words a dispatch which the detail would take 500 words. The greater distance to wire the greater the cost. Words being expensive, extravagance in their use brings a sharp jacking up from the city editor.

As the word NEWS implies, it embraces happenings from all points of the compass, necessitating correspondents to be always on the alert and quick to seize on every available avenue to get the facts onto the wire as quickly as possible.

Occasionally this eagerness to be first with the news leads to amusing happenings among the newspapermen themselves. Many years ago, a wide-awake English newspaper decided to be first out with the result of the famous Oxford and Cambridge boat race, which is rowed annually on the Thames. In advance they had editions printed in the colors of the respective universities, light blue and dark blue, leaving sufficient space to drop in the actual result and beat all rivals in distribution. The color of the edition to be distributed of course depended on which crew won, but Fate intervened, for the race resulted in a dead heat.

Armistice Day Smoker of War Veterans Source of Merriment

Old Days Behind the Lines Recalled as Ex-Service Men Celebrate End of War

"Boys of The Old Brigade" of the steadily dwindling army of veterans which enlists no recruits, gathered for an evening of song and story, interspersed with a liberal supply of refreshments, on Saturday night in the Community hall. Ex-service men from the airport camp, and camps at Bellevue and Frank, with Coleman members of the Canadian Legion, were entertained for almost three hours with a lively program.

There were singers, both serious and comic, who sprung surprises on their comrades by their versatility as platform artists, including the inimitable "Bud" Clark, the smallest bugler in the Canadian Expeditionary Force, whose attempts to sing light opera brought down the house.

Comrade Loughrie, a Mons star veteran, hit the high notes with the ease befitting a Caruso, while another singer gave a couple of songs in French. Peter Smith tried to excel with his lyric tenor voice, but the hubbub became so confused that after getting to first base with the first verse, he made his bow. Another singer, of German nationality, was called on, but had disappeared from the wings when his turn was called. "Jock" Bell, possessor of a rich baritone voice, gave the old favorite "Annie Laurie" and "The Cameron Men," and did exceedingly well. Some managed to keep to the key in which they started; others finished up an octave higher; but all gained equal applause, and no bouquet in the shape of bottles hurled to the stage. J. Anderson and his son gave a couple of selections on the accordion, and J. Anskill played popular airs on his violin.

A very clever sleight-of-hand entertainment was given by a young man from the airport camp, and his assistant was an old "poultice walloper" who was a good showman. He was overawed with the medical corps. Walter Bobbitt, also a veteran who "did his bit" for King and Country, made his maiden speech, and was given a good hearing and plenty of applause for the part he had taken in

TOWN COUNCIL HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The town council met on Tuesday with Mayor Pattinson, Councillors Haysom, Burrows, Harry, Antrobus and Chapman present.

Reports of the following were read: Auditor, secretary, health officer and sanitary inspector. Several accounts were passed for payment. Asked if anything of importance took place, Secretary Ford replied it was routine business, the meeting occupying over three hours.

Constable Houghton has returned to duty after two weeks illness.

Improvements have been made to the skating rink by the hockey club. The rink fence has been repaired, signal lights installed and other gadgets put in which will give the place a little more "loney" appearance. The fans are anxiously awaiting the opening of the season.

A gathering in subscriptions for the evening's entertainment.

A fairly good semblance of order was maintained by Camp Foreman R. V. Mundy, of Frank, who kept the program moving along till shortly before 11 p.m., when he called the troops to attention and the smoker closed with the National Anthem. And—a good time was had by all.

"Bonnie Prince Charlie" Will Be Played In Coleman Tues. Dec. 4

Famous Scottish Players Will Attract Many People From Pass Towns

It is doubtful if in all Scottish history two characters have been surrounded with more abiding romanticism than Bonnie Prince Charlie and Flora Macdonald—the young chieftain who came to regain the throne of the Stuarts, and the comely highland lass who managed his escape after defeat.

Incidents in the adventure of 1745 form the basis of the new offering of the Scottish Players, who made such a favorable impression in Coleman last season. "Bonnie Prince Charlie" will be presented here at the Community Hall, Tuesday evening, December 4th.

To regain the crown of his ancestors was the dream of his youth, and became the daring and romantic effort of the early manhood of Prince Charles Edward Stuart. In the 25th year of his age, he landed in the Western Highlands of Scotland, with but seven companions, utterly unprepared for his hazardous adventure. By his amiable manners, captivating address and attractive appearance, he soon enlisted the feelings and services of many of the clans, while others remained aloof. With the followers determined and brave, Prince Charles took possession of Scotland, penetrated England as far as Derby, and caused King George to tremble on his throne. For various reasons, he determined to retreat to the highlands for the winter.

From that moment the prospects of the Prince began to look gloomy. His bright star began to wane, until on the 16th of April, 1746, it was completely extinguished on the bloody moor of Culloden. Then followed five months of fugitive wanderings in mountain fastnesses, in caves and in huts, with a price of £50,000 upon his head; yet not one was found to betray his Prince.

It was Flora Macdonald, at peril to herself and her folk, who contrived his escape by disguising the prince as an Irish spinning maid.

PASS HOOPERS ORGANIZE

(From Blairmore Enterprise)

Basketball is going to be put over with a bang in the Crow's Nest Pass this season. The second annual meeting of the C.N.P. Basketball League was held in the Blairmore United church on Monday night and was well attended.

E. C. Coostick, recently appointed organizer for the Crow's Nest Pass by the Basketball Association, was unanimously elected president for the ensuing season, and the Rev. Upton, of Bellevue, elected secretary-treasurer. An executive was named with the following representatives: W. Macrolin, Bellevue; J. V. McDougall, Blairmore; W. Webster, Hillcrest, and D. McDonald, Coleman.

A league meeting will be held some time next week for the purpose of drawing up the various playing schedules of the four leagues, viz., men's intermediate, ladies' intermediate, junior boys and junior girls.

Coleman will be represented by one men's intermediate team and two intermediate girls' teams. Blairmore Columbus Club will enter one intermediate men's team, either a girls' junior or intermediate team and one junior boys' team. Blairmore United church will be represented by one intermediate boys' team, one junior boys' team and two intermediate girls' teams. Bellevue will have lined up two intermediate men's teams, two intermediate girls' teams and two junior boys' teams.

ODDS AND ENDS

TWO prominent Liberals went to Letbridge yesterday, allegedly to attend a political meeting. Rumors persist, as to possible candidates, but they are as hazy as smoke.

SUGGESTIONS have been made by party supporters of Liberals and Conservatives, that each meet, and unite in support of a candidate who will possess the confidence of the people. This plan was followed in 1930, when E. Cruickshank was nominated and elected. This election sees fresh aspirants, including voices from the Social Credit supporters ranks.

PARTY politics never have been "hot" in the last number of years in this district. The only time Rocky Mountain has been on the front page is when a strike or a mine disaster occurs. More forcible political action to benefit the coal industry is required. The district has self-peddled too long for its own good.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle, of Crawford Bay, B.C., are guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Ankill.

Hillcrest, a new entry into the league, will have their honor upheld by a men's intermediate team, a girls' intermediate team and two junior teams, one boys and one girls. Michel will be invited to enter an intermediate men's team and one intermediate girls' team. There is a possibility of having to abandon the girls' junior league, as to date only one entry has been received, that of Hillcrest junior girls.

Referees appointed included the following: D. McDonald, Coleman; Martin Aschacker, Blairmore; Louis Potz, Blairmore; Rev. M. A. Harrington, Blairmore; Jack Wood, Hillcrest; J. Zaboza, Hillcrest; J. Radford, Bellevue; W. Macrolin, Bellevue; Les Lund, Bellevue, and Sam Radford, Bellevue.—Ex.

"Fresh from the Gardens"

The Better Way

A news item containing only a few lines appeared recently in one of Western Canada's daily papers. It was not featured in big type nor with display headings as are murders, accidents, strikes, meeting of protest over relief quotas, etc., but it nevertheless recorded an event of real importance to the community concerned which might well be accepted and acted upon by other communities all over the country.

In order to provide a measure of relief assistance to people in need of it, the local authorities decided that, instead of continuing with a policy of giving direct relief to the exclusion of any and all other forms of assistance, they would provide a measure of work, and the news item to which reference is now made recorded the results, which, briefly, were:

One hundred miles of rural telephone lines badly in need of repair were re-constructed, the old poles cut off and re-set, ten rural systems were reduced to seven, the old wire and insulators thus saved were utilized to repair the lines on the seven systems, between 30 and 40 residents of the community were each given fifteen days work, and the only cash outlay for new materials was $4.25.

Several highly important things were thus accomplished. First and foremost these men instead of being placed deeper in debt, as they would have been if merely handed direct relief, were given remunerative work, which enabled them to discharge some of their past indebtedness. Secondly, the rural telephone systems which serve their own community were re-established for the benefit of the people there, and these systems likewise were again placed in a position as feeders to the long distance Government system. Thirdly, all the money expended, except $4.25, went to the people of the district who most badly needed it, and no additional capital debt was placed on the rural community, while the reduction of ten systems to seven should make for efficiency and less cost in operation.

It would appear to be gain to the people all round—in work provided, in past debts or taxes reduced, in restored and improved telephone service for the community and the probability of larger future revenues to the Government long distance system. It was worthwhile, constructive work without the imposition of any additional burden of debt.

Attention is called to this incident for one reason, and one reason only, and that is, to suggest to readers of this column, and in particular to those occupying some position of authority in their particular community, that they take a look around their own district and see if there is not some kind of useful community work in which their own people in need of assistance could be employed to their benefit and to the benefit of the community as a whole.

There are other rural telephone lines in Western Canada badly in need of repair and rehabilitation; there are local roads that call for improvement; there are school buildings that require attention and repairs; there are other things, large and small, that have been neglected because of lack of funds. Why not make a survey of the community, and then organize the people to attend to all such matters, giving those in need of assistance an opportunity to work off burdensome arrears of taxes or care a few dollars, instead of relying solely upon the distribution of direct relief.

By the one method municipalities are placed in a stronger position financially because their tax arrearages are reduced; by the other both municipalities and its residents are placed deeper in debt. Furthermore, by the one method the community as a whole is bettered and improved and its services and institutions efficiently maintained, and the morale of its people strengthened; by the other neither the municipality nor its residents have anything to show for their added liabilities but the fact that they maintained their existence, leaving to the future the ultimate discharge of those liabilities.

What one community has done for its own advancement and the welfare of its people, many other communities can do, if they will. It requires thought, study, planning, and organization on the part of the community, the doubtless necessities of people through the distribution of direct relief is no, about, an easier way—for the time being. But sooner or later the burden must be carried, and the more the municipality nor its residents have anything to show for their added liabilities but the fact that they maintained their existence, leaving to the future the ultimate discharge of those liabilities.

One method, it may be said in conclusion, inspires new hope and confidence, with one good encouraging example, whereas the other method leads to despair and discouragement and a further loss of that self-reliance and determination to provide self-help which is essential to the maintenance and further progress of any people and of all communities.

Eel Damages Microphone

An electric eel, making its first radio appearance, knocked the microphone out of commission with dynamic personality. The radio staff, in the course of a broadcast from the St. Louis zoo, sought to demonstrate the peculiar weapon of the eel that emits electricity. One announcer dangled his fingers in the aquarium and joined hands with a second, who touched the microphone. The eel turned loose its stings and the microphone went dead.

Hard On The Widows

Stern regulations concerning divorce and marriage have been issued by the Serb-Greek-Oriental Church through its synods. The most stringent of the regulations forbids widows to remarry until 10 years after the husband's death. A widow, on the other hand, must wait only 40 days before remarriage.

Must Sell Butter By Net Weight

Inspectors Checking Up To See That Consumers Receive Full Weights

Recently inspectors of the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture have been making a closer check up of the weights of prints of butter in order to insure that the consumer is receiving full weight. This has disclosed that the legal requirements concerning the sale of butter are not being strictly observed by some vendors.

These regulations provide in Sub-section 3 (a) of Section 6 of Part I of The Dairy Industry Act that any butter intended for sale that has been moulded or cut into prints, blocks, squares or pats must be:

"of the full net weight of one-quarter pound, one-half pound, one pound or two pounds; and nothing in this paragraph shall be held to apply to butter in rolls or lumps, of indeterminate weight, as sold by farmers."

The inspectors will continue the check up throughout Canada in order to see that consumers receive full net weight.

Empire Air Routes

Sir Philip Sassoon Says Flying Time Must Be Speeded Up

Flying times on the long-distance Empire air routes must be progressively and drastically reduced, declared Sir Philip Sassoon, British under-secretary for air, on his return from a tour as far as Singapore, longest air tour ever undertaken by a government official.

The air ministry, the post office and Imperial Airways had reached the conclusion schedules must be speeded up, said Sir Philip. Measures particularly must be taken for reduction of the air mail service, he added, with extension of night flying. Sir Philip, an aviation enthusiast, said he had often landed at night-time and he considered commercial night-flying was a practical proposition.

Hearing Below Normal

Many People Are Slightly Deaf Without Realizing It

According to Dr. G. P. Crowden, well-known aurist, many people are more or less deaf without realizing it. They imagine they can hear as well as other people.

There are 2,500,000 people in Great Britain whose hearing is below normal, and to 10,000 who are completely deaf. Five years ago, reports of army recruits for "middle-aged disease," were 41 per 1,000. Now the ratio is 50 per 1,000 and these same conditions head the list of causes of discharge within six months of entry into the army. It is estimated that every man, woman and child of these two and a half millions is seriously handicapped in everyday life, employment or education by inability to hear properly.

Scottish Musical Players

Second Transcontinental Tour Is Hailed With Pleasure

It is really little short of amazing that the Scottish Musical Players which opened their first transcontinental tour at His Majesty's Theatre, Montreal, two weeks ago so successfully has retained that fresh newness and freshness which are usually absent with a band of players who have travelled long and far. Their delightful presentation of the dramatized version of Burns, "The Cotter's Saturday Night," "The Bonnie Prince Charlie," and "The Bonnie Broom," are marked by a wholehearted enthusiasm on the part of each individual performer. Their new play has been added to the Repertoire in "Bonnie Prince Charlie".

In this presentation no attempt has been made to follow the fortunes of Prince Charles other than from culled incidents, and into which has been blended many of the stirring Jacobite songs and the haunting Highland melodies. The same company of artists as last season, comprising Mary McMahon, Edith McGregor, William T. Wilson, T. McAllister Wallace, Florence Reed, Randolph Salmon, and Ann Forsythe will be welcomed again. A new member to this season's company is Gordon Douglas. This talented company appeared at the Casa Theatre, Detroit, Michigan, last week and during the present week at the Walker Theatre, Winnipeg; their itinerary for the future includes Regina, Nov. 10th and 11th; Edmonton, Nov. 19th to 24th; and the Theatre Calgary commencing Monday, Nov. 25th and Lethbridge, Dec. 3rd. This musical company is undoubtedly the best and cleaner things of the theatre. Long may they prosper.

HANDWRITING REVEALS SECRETS OF CHARACTER

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT (Grapho-Analyst) (All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: A great deal of comment has been aroused by these articles on Character from Handwriting. Hundreds of readers write in and ask for a personal analysis of their own writing, and the author will analyse yours. See the announcement at the foot of this article.)

To the hundreds of readers who have written to express their appreciation for personal character analyses and to comment on the often uncanny accuracy of the deductions, I would like to take this opportunity of thanking them.

And, at the same time, to add a word of advice. The value from a character analysis is only obtained by those who act on the advice suggested in their analysis.

It is one thing to learn of your weak points, and to be shown wherein lie your recurrent characteristics.

But it is quite another thing to act on them! And that is where the real personal value of Grapho-Analysis comes in.

I have a letter this week from a young lady who, for personal reasons, does not wish me to send her a letter direct. She asks that I reply in this column. And, because the subject is one that will interest a great many readers, I am very glad to do so.

Miss J. Winnipeg, writes: I am very much in love with a man who is married. My parents know that I go about with this man, and are very much against it, and it is causing a great deal of trouble in my home. I am 20 years of age, and this is the first really serious love affair that I have had, but it means everything to me. The man I love says that he is not happy with his wife and talks about getting a divorce. But, he says, this is not present time. I do not want to give him up, but I would like your advice, as it may help me to do the right thing.

Dear Miss J.: You send me your own writing, and that of the man with whom you are in love, but you do not send me any from his wife. And, after all, she is very important in this triangle. Firstly, I will deal with the man. His writing shows that he is a very competent, keen minded person, with a great deal of enthusiasm, and a rather dominant will—of the kind that does not like resistance to his own opinions.

He is very strongly emotional, and is of what I will call, a "physical" type of man. There is lots of colour in his nature, and he is very fond of the good things of life. But there is very little generosity shown.

Your own writing shows a very ardent and warm-hearted nature. You do things on the impulse of the moment, and are very responsive to emotional appeals. You crave affection, and would not be happy for long without it.

You are generous and sympathetic, and always glad to do things for others.

My advice to you is to give up your gentleman friend. It is not necessary for me to go to all into the angle of the wife to give this opinion.

Your nature is not compatible with that of the man. You have been overcome by a feeling of sympathy for him, which has gradually grown into a form of love for him. But it is not a lasting love.

Give him up, and you will not long lament the passing of this, your first "serious affair." His feeling for you is undoubtedly temporary—the "infatuation of a man much older than yourself for a young, and probably pretty girl."

Do not spoil your life because of a temporary emotional urge.

... New Formula BY MAKERS OF VICKS VAPORUB Remarkably Successful

Quick!—At that first nasal irritation, snuffle or sneeze—just a few drops of Vicks Vapo-nol. It stimulates the functions provided by Nature—in the nose—to prevent colds, and to throw off colds in their early stages. Used in time, Vapo-nol helps to avoid many colds entirely.

Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or nasal catarrh) Vapo-nol penetrates deep into the nasal passages, reduces swollen membranes, clears away clogging mucus—brings comforting relief.

Better CONTROL of Colds This new aid in preventing colds, together with Vicks VapoRub, the modern external treatment for colds, forms the basis of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds—to help reduce their number and duration. The Plan is explained in each Vicks package.

Sir John Simon Is Criticized For Refusing Arms Inquiry

Toronto.—Sir John Simon, British secretary, came in for criticism when Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, vice-president of the Dominion command of the Canadian Legion and prominent lawyer, delivered an address here during the weekend.

Col. Drew, former Ontario securities commissioner, attacked the foreign secretary for refusing to start an investigation into armament sales, similar to the recent one held in Washington by the United States government.

Before the annual dinner of the University Veterans' League, Col. Drew said such refusal was implied in Sir John's speech before the British commons recently. When Col. Drew called for an exhaustive inquiry in Great Britain's war traffic, the 250 veterans present gave him unanimous support.

Convicts Escape From French Penal Colonies

Suffered Many Hardships In Hazardous Trip To Safety

Aruba, Dutch West Indies.—Ten escaped convicts from three French penal colonies off French Guiana reached Aruba to tell an incredible tale of hardships suffered during their escape.

The men, headed by Jean Duverrier, made the perilous ocean crossing despite the fact there was no one sailor in the lot.

For three of their 32 days under the searing Caribbean sun they were without food and for five days no water passed their parched lips. Twice their frail boats were wrecked and many times they were near death.

Would Revise History Teaching

Toronto.—Modernization of history teaching in schools was advocated before the Canadian Education Association convention by G. Fred McNally, of Edmonton, supervisor of schools for Alberta. Mr. McNally said Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Ontario and the maritimes were revising the secondary school curricula and he suggested the association appoint a permanent committee to study this problem and others.

Predicts More Members

Edmonton.—Increase in United Farmers of Alberta membership of from 1,000 to 3,000 was predicted by Vice-President Norman F. Priestley here. Mr. Priestley said that improved conditions in farm communities of Alberta together with revival of interest in U.F.A. objectives would share in the increase.

R. C. M. P. Detachment Create Much Interest At New York Horse Show

New York.—First visit of a detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted Police to the United States annual National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden has aroused New York to such an extent newspapermen are digging up adjectives that were buried after the Great War armistice to express their appreciation.

Joe Williams, writing in the World-Telegram, expresses the opinion of most of the show critics when he says:

"Admitting the unique effect of the mules in the boxes, all of whom were stooping hats, as if mourning a departed Tammany leader, and the policemen who wrapped their expensive lumbars in butcher aprons as they drove those little toy buggies around the ring, the hit of the show was the Canadian Mounties. Take my word for it, this is the most spectacular thing that ever showed under the Garden roof, including the last McLarnin-Pe role brawl.

Farmers Battle Police

Fourteen Picketers Are In Jail As Result Of Skirmish

Mundare, Alta.—Fourteen men were in jail, one man suffering from a deep gash over an eye, and several others nursing bruises caused by police clubs in the hands of R.C.M.P. officers in a battle to round up grain strike picketers here. The men are held without bail.

The battle started when John Lomash, anti-striker, stopped here with a wagon full of wheat and got the aid of R.C.M.P. Constable Pearson. Constable Pearson drove with him toward an elevator and 20 picketers advanced, upset the wagon and caused Pearson to land on his head.

Reinforcements from the Vegreville detachment of the R.C.M.P., under Inspector Scott, raided the picketers, and with clubs and drawn pistols waded in when the men refused to submit.

Steve Hawko received a gash over the left eye in the battle and several picketers were clubbed over the back. Finally, 14 were herded together and marched to the town cell. Only one R.C.M.P. man was hit by a picketer, it was announced.

Nine of the picketers were taken to the Fort Saskatchewan provincial jail, and a camera held by one of the picketers which recorded phases of the battle was confiscated.

The grain strike is based on protest of certain groups of farmers who are protesting against what they call low grading and certain dockages. Mundare is a settlement of Central Europeans and is about 50 miles east of Edmonton.

Winnipeg Bread War

Fear Infractions Of Minimum Wage Law If Price Cutting Continues

Winnipeg.—Housewives could buy two loaves of bread for five cents in many Winnipeg stores as the bakery price war continued despite warnings from the provincial department of labor that vigorous action would follow any infractions of the minimum wage law.

G. N. Jackson, chairman of the minimum wage board, declared investigations were being made into bakery payroll books to assure employees would not bear the weight of the price war by taking salary cuts.

Bread company officials denied there would be wage cuts but H. B. Scott, chairman of the Manitoba Retail Merchants' Association, declared "most of the bakery employees took a cut in wages."

Moving To Toronto

Toronto.—C. C. Stewart, traffic and operating assistant to the general superintendent of the Canadian National Telegraphs at Winnipeg, will take over the same position on the eastern lines, it has been announced. His headquarters will be in Toronto. W. M. Hamilton, western line inspector, will take Mr. Stewart's place at Winnipeg.

New French Cabinet

M. Flaudin Finishes Task Of Forming New Parliament

Paris. While crowds in Paris, Nancy and elsewhere cheered "Papa" Gaston Doumergue and cried "down with parliament," lowering Pierre Etienne Flaudin, Doumergue's successor as premier, finished the work of patching together another "true" government.

The six-foot six Flaudin, spurred by the gravest crisis France has known since the bloody riots nine months ago that brought Doumergue to power, needed only 10 hours to put together the pieces of the cabinet wrecked by Edouard Herriot's Radical Socialists.

Members of the new cabinet went immediately to the Elisee palace to be sworn in by President Albert Lebrun.

Flaudin's cabinet swung slightly further to the right than did the government which it replaced, by the inclusion of Georges Mandel, minister of communications, arch-conservative and right-hand man of the late Georges Clemenceau. The rightist tendency was carried a step further by the exclusion of the former Socialist minister of Labor, Adrien Marquet, who refused to join the new government because of Mandel's presence.

Herriot's Radical Socialists gained two posts, bringing the number of their portfolios to eight.

Grain To Be Re-Graded

Action To Be Taken To Settle Trouble At Mundare

Edmonton.—All grain now held in the eight elevators at Mundare, Alta., will be graded again to see if there is a basis for claims by farmer grain strikers that grading has been too low, chairman E. B. Ramsey of the board of grain commissioners, said here.

The chairman had just returned from Mundare and announced that the board will return to Mundare "at an early date" to take evidence.

Chairman Ramsey said that in a meeting with the strikers the latter emphasized their demands for immediate installation of cleaners.

"My suggestion that means might be found to get municipal cleaners was not considered," he said. "They want cleaners in all eight elevators at the expense of others, although one house had one which has gone unused for 17 years."

"Personally," he added, "I got a very unfavorable view of their complaints. I was not at all impressed. We requested them to prepare evidence in support of any claims."

Waiting Request From League

France Is Prepared To Send Troops To Saar

Paris.—Foreign Minister Pierre Laval told Roland Koester, German ambassador to France, the French stands ready to send troops into the Saar Basin if the League of Nations so requests.

He denied, however, that special military movements already have been ordered.

The ambassador replied Germany had no intention whatever of disregarding conditions fixed by treaty in order to assure free voting in the Saar.

May Be Important Find

Tar Sand Has Been Struck Near Hudson Bay Junction

Regina.—Samples of tar sand discovered in boring operations in Hudson Bay Junction vicinity have been received by company officials here.

Companies in joint drilling operations there are the Trail Blazer Company and the Senator Oil and Gas Company, of Ottawa. The tar sand was struck at 590 feet and the drill continued another 20 feet still in the tar sand.

Operations were forced to stop owing to the tar sands backing up in the drill tubing. As a result work has ceased until further casings can be obtained. The drill before it hit the tar sands went through from the surface 40 feet of limestone under the top soil, 40 feet of gypsum streaked with lime, a small sand strata and then the tar sands.

The geology of the under-surface is reported to be favorable for the recovery of oil, according to Mr. Grant. Samples have been brought to Regina and they show a high quality product, but so far any analysis is unofficial. Just as soon as further casings arrive drilling operations will continue.

Interesting Ceremony

Duke Of Kent Is Presented To The House Of Lords

London.—Centuries rolled back as the Duke of Kent, youngest son of the king, was presented in the house of lords.

Members of the workaday house of commons left their precincts to crowd their gallery in the house of peers. The deputy earl marshal and other dignitaries led the procession immediately followed by the Duke of York, the Duke of Kent and lastly the Prince of Wales. The clerk read the letters patent creating Prince George the Earl of St. Andrew's and Duke of Kent.

Interest Aroused In Elections At Vancouver To Be Held In December

Vancouver.—Two of British Columbia's most colorful political personages, the aging veteran of civic administration and a more youthful campaigner whose plans for national monetary reform created Dominion-wide interest last spring, will seek the Vancouver mayoralty in the elections of December 12.

C. G. McGeer, K.C., Liberal member of the British Columbia legislature for Vancouver-Burrard, added another item to an ambitious political program when he announced he would oppose Mayor L. D. Taylor's quest for re-election. Mr. McGeer previously stated he would seek the Liberal nomination in the federal constituency of Vancouver-Burrard for the next elections.

Before "Gerry" McGeer's announcement, Mayor Taylor was the only candidate definitely in the race for the next two-year term of office at the head of the city council.

Co-operation Is Promised

Federal Government Willing To Help Tourist Industry States Premier

Ottawa.—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett gave the tourist industry of Canada a pledge it would be afforded the full co-operation of the federal government but at the same time he added a note of warning it was up to the industry to protect the good name of Canada by seeing the tourist received the fairest possible treatment from the standpoint of courtesy, truthful representation and honest price charges.

The prime minister addressed the members of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaus and other tourist publicity experts representing the transportation companies, municipalities and private organizations and members of the senate tourist committee, at a dinner which concluded the national-wide tourist conference called by the Canadian Travel Bureau.

Favor Independence

Dublin.—A majority of the Irish people are prepared to vote for complete independence of their country, Eamon De Valera, president of the Irish Free State, declared in an election address at Limerick.

Geneva.—The League of Nations council, to meet Nov. 20 to consider the vexing question of the Saar, is expected to take up a new report of the Saar governing commission which charged the German Front is intimidating inhabitants of the valley to vote for annexation to Germany.

The report, a 24-page document, maintained the German Front was carrying on an organized campaign with the sanction of the German government.

"The commission feels it would not be fulfilling its duty if, at a moment so full of responsibility, it refrained from giving the council a faithful report on certain disturbing aspects of activities of the German Front, many of which are illegal," the commission said.

The report revealed a native Saar member of the commission refused to subscribe to the catalogue of charges because he saw no real danger in the program of the German Front. This member also added that he believed the activities of groups hostile to Germany should have been reported simultaneously.

Secret police numbering 10,000 are busy terrorizing Saarlanders believed to be opposed to joining Germany, the league's commission governing the Saar advised Geneva, while newspapers and German broadcasting facilities are used to persecute and slander individuals, including priests.

(The Saar will vote Jan. 13 whether to keep the league as its government, unite with France or rejoin Germany.)

Documents it has seized prove that the German Front and the secret police are using extreme measures to promote the German cause, the commission reported, and those opposing the Nazis have been denounced by German authorities. R reprisals after the plebiscite have been threatened, it was stated.

Italy's Wheat Imports

Slightly Higher In October This Year Than Last

Rome.—Italy imported 32,270 quintals of wheat during October, compared with 31,200 in October last year. (A quintal of wheat is 36.7 bushels.)

A general statement covering the four months period from July to October shows that imports decreased this year by 20,586 quintals, whereas those of maize increased 45,035 quintals.

Motion For Abolition Of Manufacture Of Private Arms Is Defeated

London.—A Labor motion for the abolition of private manufacture and trade in armaments was defeated in the House of Commons. The vote was 279 to 68.

Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, made it clear the British government will not permit an inquiry after the fashion of the recent United States senate committee's investigation into armaments.

Liberal speakers urged such an inquiry, but Sir John said methods used in the United States "would not commend themselves to British practice."

Liberal members apparently abandoned demands made several weeks ago for the inquiry.

The debate centred around the Labor resolution demanding abolition of the private manufacture and trade in armaments, and a provision for state production of such armaments "as considered necessary."

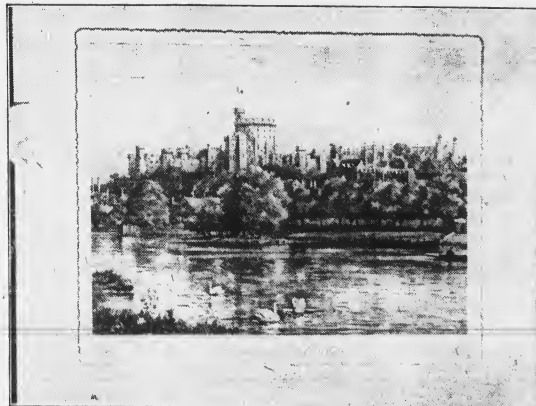

The high point of the debate was reached when Sir John rapped the United States system which allowed the king's name to be linked to the arms traffic "as though in evidence."

He was cheered as he mentioned a telegram produced during the Washington hearing "which was read as though it were evidence asserting no less a person than His Majesty the King had sent for the Polish ambassador and impressed upon him the importance of purchasing whatever he wanted from a British firm.

"Of course that is perfectly and entirely ridiculous," Sir John said. "All of us, to whatever party we belong, know His Majesty to be perfectly incapable of having any connection with this silly story."

Sir John said the government believed the remedy "lay in an international treaty negotiated at Geneva, and signed and observed by all states for strict regulation and control, rather than a state monopoly."

THE KING'S CHRISTMAS CARD

This year, His Majesty the King will have a painting of Windsor Castle on his Christmas Card, and the view will be taken from the river. "Direct thy steps to Windsor's stately courts—explore her halls, her towers, her sacred fane. And treat thine eye with grandeur. Look around and mark the teeming landscape strewn with gems of architecture, mansions, villas, domes, replete with art and science, taste and beauty."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THOUGHTS arising from Remembrance Day suggest a more thorough organization of Coleman branch of the Canadian Legion. There are sufficient ex-service men to form a strong branch to keep alive the ideals of the C. E. F. and the spirit of 1914-18.

CLAUSE 4 of Article 111. of The Legion reads: "To perpetuate the memory and deeds of the Fallen and of those who die in the future; to promote and care for memorials to their valor and sacrifice; to provide suitable burial and to keep an annual memorial day."

CLAUSE 5 reads as follows: "To see to the maintenance and comfort of those who require special treatment, of the disabled, sick, aged and needy, and to promote the welfare of the women, children and others their dependents."

AND in Clause 6 is added the following: "To educate public opinion regarding national duties to the dead, the disabled and others who have served, and their dependents."

THE official national magazine of the Canadian Legion under the caption "What Does It Mean," states: "If Remembrance Day means anything at all to those who served in the Great War which it commemorates, surely it means an opportunity for rededication to the service of King, Country and Empire; an opportunity for re-creating the old spirit of comradeship which upheld fellow-warriors in the days 'over there,' so that the sacrifices of the fallen may not have been made in vain, and so that not one of the deathless army of disabled and stricken shall be allowed to suffer because he was ready and willing to place his body as a living wall between the country he loved and its enemy."

THE war bit deeply into the hearts of many non-combatants who are just as keen to commemorate the sacrifice of the Fallen as are the ex-service men. Thousands of hearts still grieve on the breaks in family life caused by the war, and are ever ready to honor the nation's dead and assist the living. A well organized branch of The Legion would find a field of useful service, and after all service is the keynote of success for any organization.

Though many pressed for a national holiday this year because Armistice Day, renamed Remembrance Day, fell on a Sunday, The Legion executive maintained their stand that it always be commemorated on Nov. 11, the day the Armistice went into effect, and throughout the whole Dominion it is noteworthy that the reverence of the occasion was more devoutly observed because the anniversary this year came on a Sunday. It brings too many tragic memories to be observed otherwise than as a day of Remembrance and renewal of high ideals.

A young people's organization which deserves encouragement is the high school orchestra. The conductor, Miss May Powell, though fully occupied with her duties as high school teacher, has given a great deal of time in developing these young players, and some financial help in purchasing music would materially help them. It is reported a concert is being arranged and it would be a good act if tickets were purchased as liberally as possible.

THOUGH militarism as an ideal is not to be commended, military training inculcates habits of discipline and regard for deportment and appearance. To see so many boys just slouching along with no attempt to keep clothes neat or boots cleaned, makes one feel that some physical training in schools would be a mighty good thing for the sake of the boys. The Duke of Wellington, observing a British officer standing in a slack manner, asked: "Why do you stand in such an unbecoming attitude?"

"I am off duty, sir," was the reply.

"A British officer is never off duty, so resume your military standing," replied the Iron Duke.

The world judges you by the value you place on yourself. The appearance of some indicates they place very little value on themselves.

ARRANGE a public meeting to give people enlightenment on any topic, and you're lucky to have a baker's dozen attend. Announce a debate in which the public expect some fun, and likely you'll have the place "jammed," especially when Murphy is one of the debaters. The Lethbridge Herald's Bellevue correspondent reports that Murphy attempted to put through a resolution for the release of Tim Buck, a resolution which is worn threadbare, but which furnishes a good excuse to "resolute" something. How many went to the debate to really be enlightened? Amusement will always attract far more than education, as possibly the minister of the gospel who acted as chairman had impressed on him after Monday's experience. Murphy just loves those opportunities to display his wit—and just talk. If he failed to seize these opportunities to keep himself in the public eye, he would quickly fade out of the picture in the Crows Nest Pass.

Man Injured In Collision On Railroad

Halvor Heglund of Queenstown, Alta., was injured yesterday afternoon when a railroad motor speed car on which he with six other workmen were proceeding eastward from Sentinel collided with the G. P. R. yard engine a short distance west of McGillivray mine. The yard engine was backing out of the switch, and the motor speed crew could not see it owing to a curve.

All jump-d when they saw the locomotive, Heglund landing on some rails lying on the right of way, the base of one tearing his leg and also fracturing the bones, and his right hand was injured.

The others escaped with cuts and bruises. Dr. Borden immediately went out and temporarily fixed the man's injuries, and he was brought in the ambulance to Hillcrest hospital, Dr. Rose taking charge as C. P. R. doctor.

Advisable to Book Seats Early

Enquiries for seats for the performance of "Bonnie Prince Charlie" by the Scottish Musical Players on Dec. 4 in the Community hall have already been received from as far east as Pincher Creek and Cowley, and it is anticipated that with good roads on that date there will be a capacity house to greet them. The only places booked on the Crows Nest sub division of the C. P. R. are Lethbridge on Dec. 3, Coles on Dec. 4 and Cranbrook on Dec. 5.

The company played a week's engagement at the Walker theatre, Winnipeg, and is booked for one week at the Grand theatre, Calgary commencing Dec. 26.

Editor Bartlett tersely remarks: "What about paying the fare of Blairmore school board to Russia for the purpose of their celebrating King George's birthday?"

Little Journeys In Science

THE SECRET OF THE FIREFLY

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Light is produced by numerous living creatures, such as the firefly, the glow-worm, and certain varieties of squid and fish. This light is accompanied by very little heat and hence is called cold light. The search for heatless illumination is a fascinating one because cold light is more efficient than electric light. If the scientist can discover completely the secret of the firefly, he will be able to produce light much cheaper than warm light. At the present time the consumer of electricity for the production of light pays not only for the light, but also for the heat which is always given off along with the light.

The bodies of animals have a marvelous mechanism for the changing of foods into heat, and in certain cases into light and electricity. A steady combustion takes place within the body of an animal during its entire lifetime and it possesses efficient heat-regulation so that it is quite independent of cold. The firefly can flash its light, and electric fish can generate sufficient electricity to ring a door-bell.

There are a great many light-producing organisms. Scientists have found that there are at least 40 orders of animals which contain one or more light-producing forms, and that there are two groups of plants, namely fungi and bacteria, which are luminescent. Fireflies, glow-worms, jellyfish, brittle-stars, mollusks, and squid are all light-producing organisms. It has been observed that even the eggs of some animals are luminescent. Light-producing animals are never found in fresh water, but they all live in the sea or on land. Most

Christmas Seals Protect Children From Tuberculosis

MONEY RECEIVED FROM SALES PROVIDES FUNDS FOR PREVENTIVE WORK WHICH HAS BEEN INSTRUMENTAL IN DECREASING DEATH RATE BY 25% IN PAST FOUR YEARS—TAXATION PROVIDES FOR CARE OF SICK ONLY; CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE PROVIDES OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL TO HELP THIS WORTHY CAUSE.

The mother of this healthy, winsome child was a patient in the "San" when he was born. But thanks to the preventive work of the Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League, he is as free from disease today as any other normal child.

chewen in 1933. During the past six years one-third of all deaths from infectious diseases in this province have been due to tuberculosis. It is still the most fatal of all infectious diseases.

In view of these facts the need for the continuance of the greatest possible measure of preventive work is at once apparent. A most important phase of the work is the education of those who have been in contact with tuberculous patients or who show symptoms of the disease.

Of tuberculous or who have been in contact with tuberculous patients. Clinics for the examination of those who have been in contact with tuberculous patients or who show symptoms of the disease are maintained at Fort Qu'Appelle, Saskatoon and Prince Albert, Saskatchewan; at Regina, Moose Jaw, Swift Current, North Battleford, Yorkton and Canora.

Taxation provides only for the treatment of those suffering from tuberculosis. No funds are provided for the prevention of this disease, and the protection of the well from infection. Prevention is equally as important as the care of the sick.

Preventive work is a most important factor in reducing both the death rate from tuberculosis and the cost of treatment to the municipalities.

The Sale of Christmas Seals last year provided $8,390 for the carrying on of this year's Prevention Campaign. As much, or more, is needed for next year's work.

Purchasers of these seals are co-workers in a great and necessary humanitarian cause. Residents of every community in Saskatchewan will have an opportunity of assisting. All will receive letters containing sheets of Christmas Seals. Their value is one dollar a sheet—one cent a seal. These seals brighten up letters and parcels and their presence thereon shows the sender to be imbued with the true Christmas spirit.

The fight against tuberculosis, now being waged unceasingly and with such encouraging results, must go on. All can help by purchasing Christmas Seals. Your small contribution, combined with those of the thousands of other good citizens who cheerfully contribute each year, is this worthy effort, will assist in still further reducing the mortality from this preventable disease.

Buy Christmas Seals and thus help to protect your own children.

Deaths, sickness, and infection from tuberculosis have been reduced as a result of this programme, which is supported by funds secured from the sale of Christmas Seals.

The death rate in Saskatchewan has been reduced 25% in the last four years, largely as a result of preventive work, and this province today has the lowest death rate in the world.

Yet, in spite of this, showing, there were three hundred deaths from tuberculosis in Saskatchewan last year.

Of the luminescent sea animals are found many feet below the surface. The glow of damp wood (known as fox-fire) is due to fungi, a low order of plants to which mold and mildew belong. The phosphorescence of dead meat or fish is caused by bacteria. It has been only in recent times, since scientists have perfected the microscope, that the phosphorescence of the sea, the shining of damp wood, and that of dead fish and meat have been shown to be due to different forms of living organisms.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
NOVEMBER 18

THE CHRISTIAN AS CHURCH MEMBER

Golden text: "We are members of his body." Ephesians 5:30.
Lessons: Matthew 5:13-16; Acts 2:41-47.
Devotional reading: Ephesians 3:14-21.

Explanations And Comments

Responsibilities of Christians, Mt. 5:13-16. In our First Quarter we had three lessons from the Sermon on the Mount, the first one being the twelve verses which precede in Matthew's Gospel our text for to-day. They began, you will recall, with the statement that seeing the multitudes, Jesus went up into the mountain; and when he had sat down, his disciples came unto him; and he opened his mouth and taught them, saying, The Beatitudes followed. Verses 13-16, our text to-day, give Jesus' succeeding words which emphasize the influence and responsibility of disciples.

"Ye are the salt of the earth," Jesus declared. Salt was used in sacrifice by Jews, Greeks, and Romans, and was an emblem of purity and of the influence of a holy life upon others. Salt preserves from corruption; Jesus was reminding his disciples by his statement that it was their duty to keep others from moral corruption. There was an old Roman proverb to the effect that "nothing does more good than sunshine and salt."

"There has scarcely been a town in any Christian country since the time of Christ where it century has passed without exhibiting a character of such elevation that his mere presence has shamed the bad and made the good better, and has been felt at times like the presence of God himself."

"But," continued Jesus, "if the salt have lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted?" They must beware lest they lose their Christian character and become as useless in his Kingdom.

Windfall For Villagers

Struggling Fishermen Own Mountain

Containing Materials For Cement

The villagers of Matagaue-mura, near Moji, have been poverty-stricken as long as anyone can remember. They live on a desolate stretch of coast. Life has always been one long struggle to make ends meet by fishing. But now they are all rich. A mountain nearby—which was part of the common land belonging to the villagers—was found to contain silica, lime and alumina, the raw materials for cement. And so two cement companies have paid the villagers $38,000 for it. The sum of $23,750— an immense one to these poor fishing folk—is being shared out among the villagers. Those who have lived at Matagaue-mura longest will receive most.

dom as salt that has become good for nothing and is cast out upon the ground and trodden under foot of men. This was no mere figure of speech.

Another figure Jesus gave to stress the service that his disciples should render. "Ye are the light of the world." They were conspicuous witnesses for him, comparable to a city which could not be hid, for it was built upon a hill. It has often been suggested that from the Horns of Hattin, where the Sermon on the Mount has been localized, Jesus may have pointed as he spoke to Safed, a conspicuous hill-top city.

Ye are the light of the world from whom you receive your light. And as Phillips Brooks reminds us, the soul must stand in the sunlight to bear witness to the sun.

Just Talks To Bear

Veteran Says Mrs. Bruin Will Always

Listen To Reason

Bear, even a she-bear with a family, will listen to reason, says Matt Allard, veteran of the British Columbia wilds. There is no reason to be afraid of them.

Matt met a she-bear with two cubs. She looked a bit antagonistic, so he said:

"What's the matter, old lady? You'd better get back in the bush where you belong."

"She went," said Matt, "but a few seconds afterwards, back she came, so I talked to her again. 'What do you think you're doing, old lady? Get back in the bush. Nothing's going to happen to the cubs.' And that time she went for good."

He claims it's all in the way you talk to them, and if you talk right the trouble ends.

There are more Jews in the United States than in any other country in the world.

MEAT BETTER

Line your roasting pan with Canapar Cookery Parchment. The fats and juices won't burn. The meat is more succulent—and you save yourself all the bother of scraping or scouring the pan afterwards.

You can cook three vegetables at once in the same pot—when you place each in a bag of Canapar. No odors escape. All the goodness is sealed in. Use only ONE burner and turn that down low. Save fuel! Boiled or steamed fish is better, and less work, cooked in Canapar.

Just rinse the sheet of Canapar and use it over and over again. It won't absorb odors. Many women use it for a dish cloth. It's just like silk when wet—is very tough and does not shed lint.

Why at 40 You Think You're "GROWING OLD"

It's frequently just an "idea." Not "Old Age." And according to scientists, it may be something more alarming than a touch of acid stomach.

At about 40, many people think they're "growing old." They're tired a lot. Have headaches. Stomach upsets. Dizziness. Nausea.

Well, scientists say the cause, in a great many cases, is merely an acid condition of the stomach. The thing to do is simply to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, all you do is take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed.

Try this. You'll feel like another person! Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Made in Canada.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

THE TENDERFOOT

By GEORGE R. RODNEY

Author of "The Coronado Trail," "The Canyon Trail," Etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been automatically liquidated, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

But Keene decided to go see what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Keene, half-owner of the Hour-Glass Ranch, but as Duro Stone, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward wild west outfit.

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector, is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-Glass cattle and protests against it.

Spike Goddard and Sam Dustin, fearing the old prospector may tell others the things he has seen as to the branding of Carr's cattle, plot to get him to show them the location of the mine and then to kill him.

(Now Go On With The Story)

Kane nodded. His conscience was by no means clear. He knew that he had spoken unguardedly and he remembered how interested Raynor had been.

"Of course Spike and I are going to stake you," said Dustin. "But we've got to know more about what we know now. A big mine'll cost money. We've got to be able to show the goods to capital. See? When can you take me up there to see the place?"

Kane eyed him but Dustin's face was impassive. After all his demand was only reasonable. No one could expect men to "buy a pig in a poke." He nodded quietly.

"Give me a couple of days," he said. "Then I'll hike back up there and take you with me. I'll show it to you. Just you and me, hey?"

"That's all. We'll take a pack-pony for grub. I've got some business to tend to before I go."

He stopped Spike Goddard midway between the house and the corral and told him his plan.

"You mean you're going out into the hills with that old rat by yourself? No one else? Then he don't come back? That's takin' a most God's awful chance," said Spike who knew. But Dustin frowned him down.

"I mean that I'm going out into the hills with old Dad Kane to look into a prospect with him. I want Peyotl Gregg to go with us. If any accident should happen to Kane, I'll not be my fault, will it? I'll be leavin' with him on Monday. In the meantime, Spike, I've got some of old Joe Carr's paper. He borrowed twelve thousand from old Pegram on a note and the old Shylack was damned eager to sell it to me. We're sure as good as got old Joe Carr's half of the Hour-Glass sewed up."

"Yes? Well . . . Gerald Keene owns the other half, don't he?"

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it. You tell Peyotl Gregg to make up a couple of packs and be ready to hit the trail first sign of light Monday mornin'. See?"

Spike glanced at the little stringy "Old man Kane's as crazy as a hoot-owl," he said. "All prospectors are crazy. Peyotl Gregg ain't got brains enough to fill a water-bag. An' you're goin' off into the hills with a string of jackasses an' two crazy men. I'm glad I ain't goin' in Kane's place."

Dustin looked long at him and turned away.

"In that case you're sure playin' in luck," he said.

CHAPTER V.

The Hour-glass ranch looked in the red-hot sunlight and the four men playing cards in the strip of shade behind the bunk-house grunted appreciation of the game and of the hot wind that bent the mesquite tops.

Lee and Spears and Bains were playing Mississippi-River poker with a pack of twenty cards while Fort, the fat old range cook, assisted with advice from the sidelines. At a sudden noise he rose erect and stared down at them.

"My God, fellers," he said in an awed tone; "look at Montgomery-Ward, will yuh . . ."

They looked. For a brief moment they were stricken dumb. Then they laughed as a gray pony, hardly visible beneath its load of lily-stowed equipment, turned in at the gate and moved slowly toward the corral. His ill-adjusted saddle made the pony seem to move sideways and the four continued to stare as the rider dismounted and moved stiffly toward them. No word came from the poker players as the man came up to them. In non-committal silence they regarded him.

"Any chance for a job here?" he asked.

Silent Lee jerked a finger at the ranch-house.

"Old man Carr's in there," he said. "He does his own hire an' firin'. See him if you want a job."

"Thanks . . ."

The man strode over to the house and up the wooden steps. They saw him knock at the door; they heard a bull voice about "come in" and they saw the newcomer drop his hat at the doorway before entering.

"The southern bred man," quoth Bains; "but, my God, fellers! Have we all got to sleep in the bunk-house with that?"

"Uh-huh! I reckon so. You know how hard up we are for men. Old man Carr's hirin' anything that wears pants. Look at Lee . . ."

Lee started as though stung and regarded him passionately.

"Here he comes back," said Spears. "Reckon he's hired?"

As the newcomer strode back to them they examined him more carefully.

Beautifully tanned boots adorned with silver-inlaid Mexican spurs covered his feet. Immaculate white goatskin chaps covered blue denim pants . . . That was as it should be . . . A blue silk shirt lay open at the neck where its gap was filled with a scarlet neckerchief. A four-inch alligator's skin belt carried a row of shining brass cartridges and an open holster, in which lay a heavy six-gun with a walnut handle. Lee noted three new notches filed across the wood and he grinned. Fort alone took one look at the man's face that was tanned to the color of a young peccan nut and looked puzzled. That face did not agree with the blatant showiness of the equipment.

The mouth was wide and mobile, the nose had just a touch of the aquiline; enough to give character to the face. No two men ever quite agreed about the eyes. They were certainly slate-gray with sparks of hazel light in them like cat's-eyes but there was too, a sort of dancing, playing light that might be deceptive. He swept off a twenty-dollar Stetson and half-nodded.

"My name's Stone, gentlemen," he said quietly.

"Spell it with an S I reckon," said Bains who passed as the bunk-house wit.

"No, sir . . . The man's eyes lit a little and he half-grinned. "Two always spelled it with a U . . . UH, you know! You-be-damned Stone."

"Mr. Carr says 'I'm hired'."

"All right, Mr. You-be-damned Stone. Pitch your war-bag in the bunk-house. You got another name?"

"Two of 'em. But I reckon Stone's enough. Outside they call me Duro."

"That means, hard, I hear. Makes my name Hard Stone . . ."

Venom Of Snakes

Doctors Discover New Treatment For Uncontrollable Bleeding

The venom of snakes may possess mysterious properties helpful in the treatment of haemophilia, it was indicated by the researches of two British physicians.

A new treatment for the disease—an uncontrollable bleeding from which the sons of former King Alfonso of Spain are sufferers—was described in the Lancet, English medical journal, by Drs. R. G. MacFarlane and Burgess Barnett.

The physicians based their study of the hitherto incurable malady on the knowledge that the poisons of many snakes cause blood to clot. After numerous tests they found the venom of the viper to be most effective for their purposes. From it they developed what they believed to be a safe technique in the treatment of the disease.

Trapped By "Want Ad"

Police of Springfield, Missouri, used a newspaper want ad to trap a house prowler who had stolen an electric sewing machine. The ad read: "Will exchange model T Ford for an electric sewing machine." The prowler "fell" for the ad and promptly showed up at the home of a city detective who placed him under arrest and recovered the sewing machine for its owner.

Started In Curious Way

British House Of Commons Burned

A hundred years ago, on Oct. 16, 1834, the House of Commons was burned down. The great-grandfather of the present Lord Beaconsfield, Governor-General of Canada, performed feats of valor at the fire. He was then M.P. for Nottingham.

He climbed on the roof to direct the hose, in spite of the smoke, heat, water, and molten lead flowing around him. He was begged to come down, but did so only two minutes before the whole of the roof collapsed.

The fire started in a curious fashion. Until 1827 it was the practice of the Treasury to issue wooden "tallies" as acknowledgements for loans to the government.

Tallies were made by splitting a strip of wood in two, one part being retained by the treasury and the other being issued to the lender, who returned it when he was repaid his loan.

It was the custom to store discharged tallies in the cellars of the House of Commons and it was among them that the fire broke out. Paper acknowledgements were substituted for tallies in 1827. — News of the World.

Present Greedy Threats

Lions Born In Captivity More Trouble To Train

Oddly enough the lions born and bred in captivity present greater threats to trainers than do jungle born lions. Why? Because the jungle-bred lion, not having known humans in youth, fears and respects his master, but when he is brought in contact . . .

On the other hand captive-born lions usually are petted during babyhood. Everyone knows that familiarity breeds contempt, and nowhere is this more true than in our relationship with these magnificent beasts.

Behind the danger that is constantly present stands this one fact—the lion, no matter where, when and how born, is a wild animal. He always will be wild. He passes from babyhood at three years to the full-grown lion stage. After that, look out! — Pearson's Weekly.

No Damages For Negligence

Careless People Cannot Expect Compensation For Injuries

In an action tried in Ontario before a Middlesex jury the other day, in which damages for injuries were asked, a verdict was given that will have a very widespread effect on all cases of compensation for injuries suffered.

Jewelry Auction Sale Brings Many Buyers

The opportunity to purchase anything of value at a bargain price never fails to attract Powell's auction sale amply proves this by the attendance and purchases at the sale which opened last Saturday and is continuing during the coming week.

Mr. Lopton is an experienced and fluent auctioneer who combines good natured humor with his selling talks. The sale comes at an opportune time for pre-Christmas buying, and it is safe to venture the opinion that many articles now being purchased will gladden the Christmas atmosphere for the recipients.

Attendance at the Masquerade dance, held under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias on Friday evening in the Community hall, failed to come up to expectations. Prize winners were: Best dressed lady, Mrs. H. Claer; best representative lady, Miss D. Hales Blairmore; best dressed gent, Mr. Joe DeAndrea; best representative gent, Mr. Joe Michalsky; best comic lady and gent, Mrs. F. V. Duzer and Mrs. J. R. Atkinson as "Micky and Minnie."

A man might be pardoned if he went out with a gun on Sixth street and shot at night some of the yelping curs that make the night hideous with barking Monday night particularly it was very bad, and owners of dogs should either keep them in a shed or house at night or get rid of such nuisances. It shows an utter disregard of the comfort of others to allow dogs to become nuisances to the general public.

The Anglican church intend holding a concert in the parish hall on Monday next, and a drawing for a handsome radio set donated by a well-wisher will be made. Tickets are 25c for the draw, and 35c for the concert.

The best way to increase local buying is to publish weekly ads in The Journal. By failing to do this business is often diverted to any other place but the town in which we live. Nothing like force of example to induce people to buy at home.

Teachers from Coleman attending the convention at Lethbridge were Principal Hoyle, Mrs. Clifford, Miss Edith Haysom, the Misses Ethel Wilson, Kathleen Milley, Edna Fairhurst, Megan Jones, Miss A. Vuill, Mr. J. Cousins.

Mr. H. O. Davidson of Vancouver president of International Coal & Coke Co. Ltd., spent two days here this week on business.

"Bonnie Prince Charlie"

has been made to follow the fortunes of Prince Charles other than from culled incidents, and into which has been interwoven many of the stirring Jacobite songs and the haunting highland melodies.

Included in the cast are: Mary McMahon, soprano, who appears as Jessie Cameron and Flora MacDonald; Randolph Salmon, tenor, as Prince Charles; T. McAllister Wallace, baritone, as James Cameron; Douglas Gordon, baritone, as Ronald Cameron; Edith McGregor, contralto, as Lady Clanranald, and William Wilson, tenor, as "Archy," a servant; Anne Forsythe as Dugald Fraser, also, of course, clever Florence Reed, who looks after the incidental music.

These Scottish plays as presented by this clever group of Scottish players are not only for those of Scottish descent and interests, but for all who appreciate the pure art of folk drama portrayed by gifted professional artists, who interpret in these plays the spirit of the simple home life and people, immortalized in literature by Robert Burns and Ian MacLaren.
